Books connect the world

The cultural excitement and the quality of the offer represented by Italian independent publishers has allowed them to reach a share of about 50% in the book market.

ADEI – Associazione degli Editori indipendenti italiani i.e. Association of Italian Independent Publishers – represents about 250 independent publishers, some Regional Associations, and is the promoter of an important independent book fair that takes place both in Milan and Genoa.

This international catalogue, published for the 2023 Frankfurter Buchmesse, is a further signal of the liveliness and variety of ideas, projects, and colours of the Italian 'indie' World.

It marks an important step towards openness to debate not only among publishers, but also with book organizations, associations, and book events all around the World.

In such a delicate moment for international relations, we think this represents both a concrete instrument and a positive emblem of cultural exchange and friendship.
